

THERE IS MORE

“Expecting Greater”

“God sticks his head out of heaven. He looks around. He’s looking for someone not stupid—one man, even, God-expectant, just one God-ready woman.”
Psalm 14:2 (MSG)

Recap

- We all have expectations, whether they’re for the next big movie coming out or taking the next step in your walk with God (whatever that looks like). Expectation says a lot about us because it paints our vision of the future, whether good or bad. Do you have high expectations in God’s will for your life, or are your expectations low and settling for whatever comes next?
- Our expectation should be from Him. Having high expectation for what God can do brings anticipation, excitement, eagerness, faith, hope, etc. Low expectation can bring anguish, nervousness, anxiety or fear, as Ps. Brian explains. Let’s keep our expectation high in the things of God, and pursue the adventures He has for us!

Engage

- Expectation points to the depth of our calling, our inner condition, and our own revelation of God.
 - What calling has God placed on your life?
 - When you look at your current expectations, in what condition do you find yourself?
 - How do you see God? What revelation do you have of Him?
- Read Philippians 3:10. As Ps. Brian explains later in this message, some people identify more with the cross than the resurrection.
 - What is the implication of which you identify with more?
 - Do you identify with the pain and suffering of Jesus, or do you identify with life that the resurrection brings?
 - How would this identification affect how someone views God in general? Or their own everyday victories and struggle?
 - What are some practical ways someone can identify more with God’s resurrection power?
